SUBJECT: Increasing Entry Level Homeownership Opportunities:
Implementation of AB 1033 to Allow Accessory Dwelling Units (ADUs)
To Be Sold Separately

RECOMMENDATION

Refer to City Manager to implement AB 1033, which would allow Accessory Dwelling Units (ADUs) to be sold separately from a primary unit.

This referral would necessitate elimination of any mention of sales restrictions as they pertain to ADUs within the Berkeley Municipal Code and adoption of an ordinance allowing ADU sales separate from a primary unit(s).

CURRENT SITUATION AND ITS EFFECTS

AB 1033 Allows ADUs to be Sold Separately from a Primary Residence, Increasing Entry Level Homeownership Opportunities. State law AB 1033, effective January 1, 2024, eliminates the prior state law prohibiting the mapping and selling of a single-family home and its ADU as condominium units. While this prohibition on condominium conversion has been lifted, local agencies must opt-in and amend their codes to permit these entry-level homeownership opportunities. Congruent with the condominium homeownership model, property owners wishing to sell an ADU will need to notify their utility provider and establish a homeowners' association responsible for overseeing property maintenance. ADUs tend to be more affordable than a typical single-family home. By permitting the independent sale of ADUs, the City of Berkeley can increase the available stock of entry-level homeownership opportunities. Further, ADU condominium conversion purchases are eligible for federally guaranteed mortgages, easing financing opportunities for homebuyers.¹ AB1033 not only helps households seeking entry-level homeownership opportunities, it can also help existing homeowners to age in place by providing lump-sum resources from an ADU sale.

BACKGROUND

California, particularly the Bay Area, faces an ongoing housing crisis, with affordability and accessibility becoming increasingly challenging for residents. As the state grapples with this issue, nearly 20 percent of housing units constructed in California today are ADUs, reflecting the significant contribution that ADUs are making in reducing the housing shortage.² According to the California Association of Realtors Housing Affordability Index, only 17 percent of households in the state can afford a single-family home, a figure that falls significantly below the national average.³

The California Legislative Analyst's Office, a nonpartisan entity, examined the state's exorbitant housing costs and delineated various factors contributing to it, notably a pronounced housing shortage, particularly in coastal California.⁴ Since 1980, housing construction in California has lagged significantly behind both national and historical averages. Despite a national housing boom in the mid-2000s, California's housing production remained relatively sluggish. Moreover, merely 10 percent of Berkeley's housing units were constructed after 1980.⁵ As construction slowed over time, California's housing costs escalated, surpassing the national average. Presently, home prices in Berkeley stand at $1.4 million compared to the national average of $354,000.⁶

In their report, "Closing California's Housing Gap," the McKinsey Global Institute proposed specific measures to alleviate housing insecurity in the state. They recommend tackling housing scarcity by identifying potential "hot spots" for housing creation, such as areas within a half-mile radius of transit hubs, underutilized urban lots, and the addition of extra units to single-family homes.⁷

While the impact of high housing costs disproportionately affects certain racial and socioeconomic groups, there is also a noticeable generational divide. The scarcity of affordable housing near employment opportunities, coupled with mounting student debt, has resulted in a net worth for young households that is 20 percent lower than that of baby boomers in 1989 and 40 percent lower than that of Generation X families in 2001. Additionally, homeownership is increasingly unattainable for younger generations, with millennials being 8 percent less likely to own homes compared to baby boomers and Gen Xers.⁸ Nearly half of households aged 18-34 are considered rent-burdened. The Urban

Institute conducted an extensive study on the barriers to millennial homeownership and recommended a series of policy changes, with a key recommendation being the alteration of land use and zoning restrictions, particularly in areas with rigid housing supply.⁹

Furthermore, moderate-income earners often find themselves unable to access Below Market Rate (BMR) housing, exacerbating the issue. Naturally affordable housing options, such as ADUs, often offer a pathway to more affordable living. An analysis by the Turner Center revealed that 58 percent of ADU owners rented their units at below-market-rate rent. Due to their smaller size and/or cost-effective construction, ADUs frequently provide more affordable options for both owners and renters compared to single-family homes.¹⁰

FISCAL IMPACT

Staff time to amend the Berkeley Municipal Code to eliminate mention of sales restrictions as they pertain to ADUs and to prepare an ordinance allowing ADU sales separate from the main unit(s).

ENVIRONMENTAL SUSTAINABILITY

The recommendation to promote ADUs has significant implications for environmental sustainability, particularly through the concept of infill housing, especially near transit hubs. By encouraging the construction of ADUs, cities can capitalize on existing infrastructure and minimize urban sprawl by using underutilized parcels within established neighborhoods. This approach to infill housing not only optimizes land use but also reduces the need for further development on undeveloped land, preserving natural habitats and open spaces.¹¹ Moreover, siting ADUs near transit promotes alternative modes of transportation, such as walking, biking, or public transit, thus reducing reliance on cars and lowering greenhouse gas emissions associated with commuting. Overall, the strategic implementation of ADUs as infill housing near transit contributes to a more sustainable urban environment, aligning with efforts to combat climate change and promote eco-friendly living practices.

Expanding housing options plays a crucial role in addressing environmental concerns, aligning with the City of Berkeley's Climate Action Plan. Researchers from the University of California have developed a climate policy tool for local governments to evaluate policies'

AB1033 – HOW TO IMPLEMENT NEW STATE ADU CONDOMINIUM LAW

Today, nearly 20% of housing units built in California are accessory dwelling units (“ADUs”). According to the California Association of Realtors Housing Affordability Index, only 17% of households can afford a single-family home, less than half of the national average. In many States across the country, ADU condo conversion projects are re-enabling a generation of home buyers to live in the communities of their choice near work and family. The State of Washington recently required all local agencies to allow conversions of a primary unit and ADU to condominiums for sale. Consequently, in Seattle and Portland 40% to 50% of ADUs constructed are sold as condominiums to new homebuyers, where they are bought for approximately half the value of a stand-alone single-family home. Such ADU condo conversion purchases are eligible for federally guaranteed mortgages, making them easy to finance for ordinary homebuyers.

The California State Legislature recently adopted a new law, AB1033, that creates affordable options for homeownership by allowing ADU’s to be sold separately from a primary unit. AB1033 removes the previous State law prohibition against mapping and selling a single-family home and its ADU as condominiums. Even though this prohibition on condo conversion has been eliminated, it is up to Local Agencies to amend their codes to allow these entry-level home ownership opportunities.

WHAT NEEDS TO BE DONE TO ALLOW SALE OF ADUS?

Respecting local control, the Legislature left it up to Local Agencies to amend their municipal code(s) to allow these entry-level home ownership opportunities through the sale of ADUs. The Casita Coalition and Reuben, Junius, and Rose, LLP have developed this guidance to encourage your Local Agency to make the following changes to your code(s), procedures and policies to re-enable Californians priced out of many of our communities to once again have a dream of buying a home by enabling more naturally-affordable condominiums for sale.

RECOMMENDED STEPS TO IMPLEMENT SALE OF ADUS

1. Eliminate Sale Restrictions. Remove all provisions in your municipal code that prohibits the sale or other conveyance of an ADU. These restrictions are typically included in local Condominium Codes and Zoning Codes.

2. Adopt Legislation Expressly Allowing ADU Sales. To align local rules with State law, adopt changes to the municipal code that allow conversion of a home and its ADU into condominiums subject to the requirements of the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Cal. Civ. Code Sec. 4400-6150.) Appropriate amendment text will differ depending on the existing municipal code, but AB1033 requires a list of express provisions be included in such local ordinance, attached at the end of this document.
3. Publish ADU Checklists. Provide a comprehensive checklist for any ADU building permit and for ADU condominium/subdivision projects, indicating Subdivision Map Act compliance and lender subordination information.
4. First Right of Offer to Owner Occupants. To further encourage new homeownership, consider including a condition of approval for establishing condominiums of a primary unit and ADU giving a first right of offer for a period of 45 days on publicly accessible databases, e.g., MLS, to buyers indicating an intent to live in the property (either themselves or their immediate family). To avoid issues with lenders, however, do not require owner occupancy.
5. Create “Grow Homeownership” Program. Establish a program with dedicated staff that expedites ADU condominium processing with first comments to be issued within 45 days of submission of a complete application.
 - Consider waiving or reducing application and impact fees otherwise applied to condominiums.
 - The Grow Homeownership Program could be paired with other funding programs your jurisdiction may have, e.g., through SB2 (2017) funds.

AB1033 – Required Text in ADU Condominium Ordinances – Cal. Govt. Code Sec. 65852.2(a)(10)

(A) The condominiums shall be created pursuant to the Davis-Stirling Common Interest Development Act (Part 5 (commencing with Section 4000) of Division 4 of the Civil Code).

(B) The condominiums shall be created in conformance with all applicable objective requirements of the Subdivision Map Act (Division 2 (commencing with Section 66410)) and all objective requirements of a local subdivision ordinance.

(C) Before recordation of the condominium plan, a safety inspection of the accessory dwelling unit shall be conducted as evidenced either through a certificate of occupancy from the local agency or a housing quality standards report from a building inspector certified by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

(D) (i) Neither a subdivision map nor a condominium plan shall be recorded with the county recorder in the county where the real property is located without each lienholder's consent. The following shall apply to the consent of a lienholder:

(I) A lienholder may refuse to give consent.

(II) A lienholder may consent provided that any terms and conditions required by the lienholder are satisfied.

(ii) Prior to recordation of the initial or any subsequent modifications to the condominium plan, written evidence of the lienholder's consent shall be provided to the county recorder along with a signed statement from each lienholder that states as follows:

"(Name of lienholder) hereby consents to the recording of this condominium plan in their sole and absolute discretion and the borrower has or will satisfy any additional terms and conditions the lienholder may have."

(iii) The lienholder's consent shall be included on the condominium plan or a separate form attached to the condominium plan that includes the following information:

(I) The lienholder's signature.

(II) The name of the record owner or ground lessee.

(III) The legal description of the real property.

(IV) The identities of all parties with an interest in the real property as reflected in the real property records.

(iv) The lienholder's consent shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the real property is located.

(E) The local agency shall include the following notice to consumers on any accessory dwelling or junior accessory dwelling unit submittal checklist or public information issued describing requirements and permitting for accessory dwelling units, including as standard condition of any accessory dwelling unit building permit or condominium plan approval:

"NOTICE: If you are considering establishing your primary dwelling unit and accessory dwelling unit as a condominium, please ensure that your building permitting agency allows this practice. If you decide to establish your primary dwelling unit and accessory dwelling unit as a condominium, your condominium plan or any future modifications to the condominium plan must be recorded with the County Recorder. Prior to recordation or modification of your subdivision map and condominium plan, any lienholder with a lien on your title must provide a form of written consent either on the condominium plan, or on the lienholder's consent form attached to the condominium plan, with text that clearly states that the lender approves recordation of the condominium plan and that you have satisfied their terms and conditions, if any.

In order to secure lender consent, you may be required to follow additional lender requirements, which may include, but are not limited to, one or more of the following:

(a) Paying off your current lender.

You may pay off your mortgage and any liens through a refinance or a new loan. Be aware that refinancing or using a new loan may result in changes to your interest rate or tax basis. Also, be aware that any subsequent modification to your subdivision map or condominium plan must also be consented to by your lender, which consent may be denied.

(b) Securing your lender's approval of a modification to their loan collateral due to the change of your current property legal description into one or more condominium parcels.

(c) Securing your lender's consent to the details of any construction loan or ground lease.

This may include a copy of the improvement contract entered in good faith with a licensed contractor, evidence that the record owner or ground lessee has the funds to complete the work, and a signed statement made by the record owner or ground lessor that the information in the consent above is true and correct."

(F) If an accessory dwelling unit is established as a condominium, the local government shall require the homeowner to notify providers of utilities, including water, sewer, gas, and electricity, of the condominium creation and separate conveyance.

(G) (i) The owner of a property or a separate interest within an existing planned development that has an existing association, as defined in Section 4080 of the Civil Code, shall not record a condominium plan to create a common interest development under Section 4100 of the Civil Code without the express written authorization by the existing association.

(ii) For purposes of this subparagraph, written authorization by the existing association means approval by the board at a duly noticed board meeting, as defined in Section 4090 of the Civil Code, and if needed pursuant to the existing association's governing documents, membership approval of the existing association.

(H) An accessory dwelling unit shall be sold or otherwise conveyed separate from the primary residence only under the conditions outlined in this paragraph or pursuant to Section 65852.26.
